Compensating Your Employees: How to Get it Right March 23, 2010

Federal and state regulators, the media and watchdog groups are putting greater emphasis on nonprofit compensation. From the Form 990 to its audit guidelines, the IRS has stepped up its oversight of nonprofit compensation and made it clear that nonprofits need to fully comply with the IRS rules for compensating employees. This seminar's first session will discuss the IRS rules for setting executive compensation and how to avoid common pitfalls for expense reimbursement and other payments that may not meet IRS requirements for non-taxable benefits. The next session will discuss the employment law framework for pay equity, performance evaluations and how to minimize the risk of discrimination claims when setting compensation. In the final session, a leading compensation consulting firm will discuss how your organization can design a compensation structure and benefits program that will help attract and retain good employees—even in tough economic times.

This course is designed for board members, executive directors, human resource professionals, CFOs and finance directors.

Moderator: Elizabeth Guggenheimer, Deputy Executive Director, Lawyers Alliance for New York

Speakers: Shane Hamilton, Member, Miller & Chevalier Chartered
Michael Lloyd, Member, Miller & Chevalier Chartered

DLA Piper has 3,500 lawyers working in 67 offices and 29 countries around the world. Lawyers operating from offices in Asia, Europe, the Middle East and the United States provide high quality legal advice to clients in their local market and internationally. Our vision is to be the leading global business law firm. We draw on the knowledge of our locally and internationally trained lawyers advising on a broad range of matters including commercial, corporate, bankruptcy and restructuring, tax, finance, human resources, litigation, real estate, regulatory and legislative, technology, and media and communications in every major market around the world. Our commitment to clients is matched by a commitment to give back to our communities. In 2009, in the US alone, our lawyers devoted more than 130,000 hours to pro bono matters, and we were awarded the 2008 American Bar Association Pro Bono Publico Award by the ABA Standing Committee on Pro Bono and Public Service.
